Sportsperson of the Year Nomination Form

Beginning in 1997, All American Speedway drivers have the benefit of selecting a Sportsperson of the Year. A Sportsperson can be one of many things; perhaps he or she is the most helpful to other drivers or racing teams; perhaps he or she is the most humble in defeat and the most gracious in victory. The winner of this award need not be a driver; perhaps it is a pit crew chief, a spouse or a friend who is always providing a memorable level of support, encouragement and good will to other racing participants. Above all, a person should not be nominated for this award that is the most popular person; it should be given to the most deserving person. Only one person will be selected.
